Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing with immense enthusiasm to express my interest in the Frontend Developer (React + React Native) co-op position at Common Sun Inc. The opportunity to contribute to Heymarket, a platform making a tangible impact on customer communication, deeply resonates with my passion for building user-centric applications. The chance to work alongside experienced engineers in a fast-paced SaaS environment is incredibly appealing.

My experience directly aligns with the requirements outlined in the job description. I have built a React Native dashboard with GraphQL API integration, demonstrating my proficiency in mobile development and real-time data handling. This experience translates perfectly to the need for building and maintaining UI components and developing features in React Native. Furthermore, my strong knowledge of JavaScript, and my previous work on a full-stack platform in Next.js, Prisma, and PostgreSQL, showcases my ability to work with REST APIs and collaborative workflows as mentioned in the job description. I am confident in my ability to contribute meaningfully to your team from day one.

The chance to learn new technologies and grow within a company committed to its mission is what I am looking for. I am eager to apply my skills to solve real-world problems and help elevate the user experience of Heymarket. I am truly excited about the prospect of joining Common Sun Inc.
